

Who We Are

The Network of Santa Barbara County Water Providers is a collaborative group consisting of the Santa Barbara County Water Agency and the water providers within the county. Together, these agencies sponsor programs that promote water conservation and awareness.

This collaborative group was first established by the County Water Agency during the drought of 1988-1991. Over the past 20 years, water providers have joined forces to share ideas, work on regional projects, and apply for grant funding. WaterWiseSB.org is our collaborative website for residents to find a plethora of information for conserving water at home, in the landscape, and at work.

The network consists of water providers across the County, including:

- Carpinteria Valley Water District
- City of Buellton
- City of Guadalupe
